Albany Hill Hotel, Amusement Park Outlined Long-Range City Plan

Construction of a fashionable hotel on Albany Hill . . . a city center where young people can get together . . . a centralized location of all city buildings are included in preliminary master plan for Albany as prepared by a San Francisco planning consultant.

At a meeting of some 60 city officials and residents at a "town hall" last week, Lawrence Livingston unveiled for the first time a long-range master plan for Albany prepared at the request of the City Council.

Livingston explained that the objective of the plan was "to guide city growth along sound lines, to provide a harmonious relationship of land uses; to provide a safe, workable traffic system; to enhance the city's appearance; to provide needed recreation; to provide employment opportunities within the city; and to preserve the city's chief natural asset, Albany Hill."

Official adoption of the plan requires at least two public hearings by the Planning Commission before it is presented to the Council and at least one more hearing by the Council. The plan is flexible and can be changed as circumstances arise, Livingston said.

At the city's present appearance, Livingston said, the hill areas are attractive except for a few older sections and some projects. He described Albany Hill as the city's major asset, and declared that the plan has a good potential for needed recreational facilities.

Livingston said that the tide of development off Albany is not suitable for industrial development, since the hill is estimated to be 90 to 100 feet under water. He proposed a recreational area, including an amusement park, lagoon for sports, picnic islands, yacht harbor and a sportsman's area on the hill.

For the future, he pointed out, Albany needs a community center where young people can gather, and that scattered buildings should be consolidated preferably near the business district.

A planning consultant said he believed a fashionable hotel on the hill would produce additional tax revenue.

Livingston declared, "It is up to us to see through this Planning Commission and City Council. He recommended population would be 19,788, about 10,000 more than the present.

There was no apparent opposition to the proposed plan from city officials and spectators, who termed it "a very sound proposal" . . . "a step forward for the community," and "a masterful presentation."

Official adoption of the plan requires at least two public hearings by the Planning Commission before it is presented to the Council and at least one more hearing by the Council. The plan is flexible and can be changed as circumstances arise, Livingston said.

At the regular Legion business meeting tonight, members will be briefed on the Post's part in the Independence Day Celebration. A float decorated party will be held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holland.

Mrs. Margaret Hanahan, past president of the Albany Auxiliary Unit, is unopposed for the office of district president. Two candidates are competing for second vice commander, stepping stone to the commandment. They are Alan DeKay from East Oakland and Milford Benkula from Hayward.

"I feel this is one of the finest opportunities a welfare club can have—that of contributing to a great educational program that has unlimited possibilities in the cultural field," declared Harold Denham, outgoing president of the club in presenting the check to Mrs. Isabelle Betten, member of the Albany Channel 9 Committee.

On Monday and Thursday of each week, from 7 to 8 p.m., KQED is on the air with a minimal summer schedule of film programs, covering such diverse subjects as archeology, marine research, the peacetime uses of atomic energy, American political parties, and the growth and development of children.

KQED, Channel 9, is a non-profit educational station that depends on subscription memberships to survive.

Thoughts for Fourth of July

In celebrating the Fourth of July there is a tendency on our part to think of it as the day on which our national independence was established.

To be sure, in 1776, that was the day of the Declaration of Independence was signed. But it was only a declaration; it did not create a condition of release from British tyranny. It was not the culmination of the fight for liberty, it was the formal beginning. Years of hard struggle against towering odds were necessary before the freedom of the Colonies became a fact.

But the fight to maintain that freedom has never stopped. It has borne on through the 178 years of our history, sometimes in wars with other nations, once in that tragic Civil War and almost constantly less violent conflict in legislative and social fields.

That struggle is being waged today. We are having a part in that struggle. At the moment we are not called upon for the sacrifices of life and limb—but the demand of the hour is to meet the forces both from abroad and at home which would undermine our moral strength and destroy our national unity.

The greatness of a nation depends on the courage and conduct of its people. The brave leaders of the Thirteen Colonies have set for us a high example. Our duty is to live up to it.

So, it is not entirely the observance of past achievements but the dedication of ourselves to present responsibilities that we must keep uppermost in thought on the Fourth of July.

Key System Service Cut Stirs Albany Councilmen

Scout Troop 45 To High Sierra

Scoutmaster Henry Silva and 15 members of his Albany Scout Troop 45 today are enjoying the outdoor life at Camp Wolfboro in the High Sierra.

The group left here Thursday for 10 days of camping, including an overnight pack trip as well as swimming, nature hikes and other activities. This marks the first extensive camping experience for most of the Scouts, and a number of them will take advantage of the opportunity to work out their first and second class requirements.

The group includes George Rossellius, Steve Golden and Ross Miller from Troop 42. The Troop 45 contingent is composed of Larry Cassell, David Hathaway, John Henry, Phil Hoskins, John Jones, Gene Miller, Bob Sangmaster, Dick Watkins, Gene Weeks, Lee Weintraut, Jim Wilson and Walter Wind. The boys will return July 5.

The Troop 45 is sponsored by the Cornell-Vista Dads' Club with Fred M. Brown as committee chairman.

Funeral Rites Held For Mary A. Farling

Last rites were held June 17 for Mrs. Mary Alice Farling, Albany resident for the past four years, who died June 15 at home, 1068 Cornell Ave., after a short illness. She was the wife of Paul D. Farling, active in the local Civil Defense program and owner of a photocopy service on Soano Ave.

A native of Albia, Ia., she was reared in San Diego. She formerly lived in Berkeley 10 years before moving to Albany.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Farling is survived by a daughter Mrs. Della Madding of Albany.

The Albany City Council today has voted unanimously to protest any cut in Key System service affecting Albany, which Mayor Lewis M. Howell termed as "already inadequate."

The Council at its Monday night session instructed City Attorney Robert Foley to protest any curtailment as proposed by Key System.

The transit company asked the State Public Utilities Commission for permission to reduce operations on eight transbay lines and 24 motor coach lines. Included was the "G" bus line, operating between Soano Ave. and the San Francisco terminal. Outside of early morning peak hours, Key proposes to replace the "G" line with shuttle service to 40th St. and San Pablo Ave., Oakland.

Councilwoman Mrs. Kathie Zahn said "it's a fight to the finish," and Councilman Jerome Blank added that "we're going to have a fight a rear guard action."

In other action, the Council accepted a bid of $1702.34 from Curt Campbell's for three new police cars, including allowances for three old cars to be turned in.

The Council accepted a $25 check from the Albany Soano Ave. Merchants to be used toward the purchase of material for a reviewing stand for the Fourth of July Parade.

City Engineer J. H. Macdonald was instructed to have white crosswalks painted on Soano Ave. at Stannage Ave. at the request of the Albany Community Methodist Church.

In other business, the Council voted to insert the words "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance as prescribed by Congress. Councilman blank declared that he was a "God-fearing man, but questioned the two-word addition on the grounds that not all people worship the same God."

"If we can't pledge allegiance to the United States in the way Congress prescribes, we shouldn't pledge at all," Mrs. Zahn added.

Bouquet-getter...

Caketop Pudding!

Puddings are always popular... particularly when they're homemade. This one's the kind that'll get you bouquets all over the place. When the family asks you how you did it, be nonchalant and answer, "Oh, it's easy." It is, too, and really economical.

Caketop Pudding

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 4 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
- 4 egg whites

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour, lemon juice, rind, salt and mix well. Stir in milk. Blend in 1/4 cup almonds. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold into mixture. Pour into loaf baking dish, 9x5 inches. Set in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven (325° F) for 40 minutes. Turn thermostat to 350° and bake until brown, about 10 minutes. Sprinkle with remaining almonds and serve either warm or chilled. Makes 8 servings.
